DETAILED ACTION

Examiner's Comment

Examiner is reopening prosecution of application number 10/825,332 in view of Applicant's Appeal brief and upon further consideration of the prior art.

Response to Arguments

Rejection under Double Patenting

Applicant's arguments, see pages 2-4, filed 10/03/2006, with respect to Claims 10 have been fully considered and are persuasive. The provisional double patenting rejection of Claim 10 has been withdrawn.

Rejection under 35 USC § 102

Applicant's arguments, see pages 4-5, filed 10/03/2006, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 10-17 and 19 under 35 USC § 102(b) have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Wollin (US 5,916,367) in view of Obrecht (US 4,082,324).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 10 14-16 and 19 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wollin (US 5,916,367) in view of Obrecht (US 4,082,324).

In regard to Claim 10, 14-16 and 19 Wollin (US 5,916,367) teaches a spray head for a spraying tool having an end (15) and a plurality of passages (Column 5, lines 40-67) for media to be sprayed wherein the end of each spray unit has a chamber (22; see also Figure 2) where a plurality of coupling elements (24) communicate with the passages and reach into both chambers at the ends of the spray units that are joined and each coupling element includes a passage and where the end of the spray unit has two chambers that are arranged parallel to one another. (In regard to Claims 14-16) Wollin further teaches where the end of the spray units have two chambers arranged parallel to one another where the chambers are coaxial with two of the passages of one of the spray units where between the two passages that are coaxial with the two chambers there is a third passage at the end of each spray unit (18, 19, 22, and connecting conduits). Wollin fails to teach where the coupling element recesses have a tapered surface and a clamp that engages the tapered surfaces and presses the joined spray units together. However, Obrecht (US 4,082,324) teaches that it is known to have coupling elements that have a tapered surface (Figure 1 and 2) and a clamp that engages the tapered surfaces and presses the joined spray units together. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the present invention was made to provide the coupling element recesses of Wollin with the tapered surfaces of the recesses taught by Obrecht and to further provide the clamping device of Obrecht with Wollin so as to afford a manner in which the spray units can be pressed together where the tapered surfaces increase the contact surface area engagement of the spray units thereby preventing slippage when operating under pressurized conditions.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 11-13 and 17 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but appear to be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Barnes (US 3,341,124) and MacDonald et al. (US 5,976,418):
